Forecast For Northern Ireland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Wednesday 20 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Sunny spells developing with a few showers.

Today:
Cloudy start across the south and east with patchy rain but drier conditions across the north and west soon spread east with sunny spells developing. A few afternoon showers develop across the north and west but most places remains dry. Maximum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Tonight:
A few showers continues across northern and western areas through the evening and overnight but southern parts look largely dry with clear spells allowing a frost to develop. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Thursday:
A bright day, although the north coast likely to be cloudier at times, with occasional showers, these turning increasingly wintry over the hills. Fresh northwesterly winds, locally strong near coasts. Maximum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Cold with sunny or clear spells and, especially in north and west, wintry showers, falling mainly as snow inland. Northwesterly winds easing with widespread overnight frosts.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.